Turnaround for e-bus sales in sight

- We believe NEX's net profit turnaround is right around the corner, based on the significant improvement in its production of e-buses.
- Thailand's burgeoning electric vehicle (EV) industry is poised for strong demand growth with more options and better affordability.
- Maintain BUY with our TP at THB21.6.

Deliveries of 2,500-3,000 e-buses are highly achievable in 2022

We believe that a turnaround in NEX's net profit is imminent, based on significant improvements in its production of e-buses from sub-100 per month to 150 in June and likely rising to 400-500 per month in 2H22. The higher monthly e-bus production and deliveries should allow NEX to secure 2,500-3,000 e-bus order deliveries this year, putting the company on track to achieve our projected THB655m net profit in 2022. Each e-bus sale could generate 0.6-0.8m in net profit, based on our estimate.

More sanguine demand for commercial EVs

The recent arrival of Tesla and BYD into Thailand's EV market, and the lack of subsidies for imported e-buses and e-trucks, helps NEX stand out as the best-positioned EV seller in the commercial EV market, in our view. We think the EV industry's development in Thailand is likely to see strong demand growth from more EV choices, better affordability and the surge in supply growth from committed new EV manufacturing plants by 2024. However, we think most newcomers, both producers and sellers, will focus mostly on the growing demand in the consumer passenger EV market, which we estimate at 0.8m p.a. vs only 77k for the commercial EV market (3,542 new buses and 73,873 trucks) in 2021.

Beneficiary of higher oil prices

We think the soaring prices of crude oil, diesel and gasoline due to rising supply risks from the Russia-Ukraine war are accelerating the consumer adoption rate for NEX's e-buses and e-trucks. Based on our estimates, an EV is 53.6% to 76.9% cheaper to drive than an E10 gasoline-powered vehicle, and 42.4% to 76.5% cheaper than diesel B7. As the buyers of commercial EVs lean heavily towards cost savings, we think NEX should see stronger demand for its e-buses and e-trucks in 2022-24.

NEX's era of disappointment is now behind it

After two quarters of disappointing production and deliveries of new ebuses in 4Q21-1Q22 due to a shortage of skilled workers, Energy Absolute (EA TB, BUY) and NEX have finally resolved the problem and are now in the process of ramping up production to 150 e-buses in Jun-22. Production will rise to 400-500 per month starting in Jul-22 and reach 2,500-3,000 e-bus deliveries in 2022, according to management.

RECOMMENDATION STRUCTURE

Stock ratings

Stock ratings are based on absolute upside or downside, which we define as (target price* - current price) / current price.

BUY (B). The upside is 10% or more.

HOLD (H). The upside or downside is less than 10%.

REDUCE (R). The downside is 10% or more.

Unless otherwise specified, these recommendations are set with a 12-month horizon. Thus, it is possible that future price volatility may cause a temporary mismatch between upside/downside for a stock based on market price and the formal recommendation.

* In most cases, the target price will equal the analyst's assessment of the current fair value of the stock. However, if the analyst doesn't think the market will reassess the stock over the specified time horizon due to a lack of events or catalysts, then the target price may differ from fair value. In most cases, therefore, our recommendation is an assessment of the mismatch between current market price and our assessment of current fair value.
