Loan growth might cushion high ECL

- In-line 2Q22 NP of THB1.4b (+9% y-y, stable q-q). Significant loan growth, but a continued surge in NPLs.
- Expect its active balance sheet to serve as a cushion for potentially higher provisions in 2H22.
- Maintain BUY based on expected strong 2023 earnings growth.

In-line 2Q22 results, but a continued surge in NPLs

MTC's recovery continued in 2Q22 with a net profit of THB1,381m (+9% y-y, stable q-q), which was in line with our expectation and the Bloomberg consensus. Its 1H22 net profit accounts for 49% of our 2022 forecast.

Mixed bag in 2Q22 performance

MTC's 2Q22 performance was a mixed bag, in our view. On the positive side, its loan volume surged by 8.9% q-q and 34.5% y-y, which was higher than our forecast, following ample demand and its efforts to gain market share. Also, with its aggressive branch expansion to 6,475 branches from 6,166 branches in 1Q22, its cost to income ratio declined to 45.7%. Additionally, MTC was able to control its cost of funds effectively, leading to a stable cost of funds q-q. As for the negatives, although MTC aggressively wrote-off NPLs worth cTHB340m (based on our calculation), there was a continued 29% q-q surge in its non-performing loans (NPLs) in 2Q22 from high inflation and the end of the debt forbearance program, with a record low coverage ratio of 96%.

Expect a slight improvement in 2H22 net profit

We expect MTC's NPL ratio and coverage ratio in 2022 to fall short of its target of "less than 2%" and "120-130%", respectively. Thus, we believe it will set higher provisions in 2H22 as it would like to increase its coverage ratio and accelerate NPL write-offs. However, we think its active balance sheet should help to prevent downside risks from the elevated expected credit loss (ECL) level. Thus, we reiterate our view that MTC's net profit in 2H22 should increase y-y and h-h.

Maintain BUY with our 2023 GGM-based TP of THB60

We think the surge in NPLs should have a negative impact on MTC's share price in the short term. However, we think the benefits from sacrificing its profit margin to gain more market share in the past two years should clearly manifest from 2H22 onward, potentially rewarding MTC with the most robust 2023 net profit growth among big auto title lenders at 23% y-y. Furthermore, we think MTC's valuation at 15.6x 2023E P/E is still attractive. Accordingly, we maintain MTC as one of our top picks among diversified financials and reiterate our BUY call with a 2023 GGM-based TP of THB60.

2Q22 key highlights

- NII increased by 24% y-y and 7% q-q following a rise in its loan volume of 34.5% y-y and 8.9% q-q.
- Its cost of funds was relatively stable q-q at 3.2% due to a higher mix of short-term borrowing during the quarter.
- Its non-NII slightly dropped 2% y-y from the negative impact of the new debt collection fee measures.

RECOMMENDATION STRUCTURE

Stock ratings

Stock ratings are based on absolute upside or downside, which we define as $(\text{target price}^* - \text{current price}) / \text{current price}$.

BUY (B). The upside is 10% or more.

HOLD (H). The upside or downside is less than 10%.

REDUCE (R). The downside is 10% or more.

Unless otherwise specified, these recommendations are set with a 12-month horizon. Thus, it is possible that future price volatility may cause a temporary mismatch between upside/downside for a stock based on market price and the formal recommendation.

* In most cases, the target price will equal the analyst's assessment of the current fair value of the stock. However, if the analyst doesn't think the market will reassess the stock over the specified time horizon due to a lack of events or catalysts, then the target price may differ from fair value. In most cases, therefore, our recommendation is an assessment of the mismatch between current market price and our assessment of current fair value.
